Thursday Morning Thoughts
Reflection Questions

In your own life, what have you noticed that you try to find your identity and purpose in other than Jesus?

To help you think further about that, what is a meaningful quality of life that you long for, and you notice that you seek that out here: _____ (rather than Jesus)?

When you look at the life of Jesus, how does he reveal himself to be the better version of the quality that you put down in the last question.? Fill in the blank: Jesus is the better _____.

If you haven't already surrendered your life to Jesus, imagine how Jesus wants to transform you to experience the fullness of that quality of life in relationship with him. Imagine how Jesus is the better: _____.

If you have already surrendered your life to Jesus, how has Jesus transformed your life? How has Jesus been the better _____ in your life so far? How do you hope he will continue to help you see him as the better _____ in your life? How will Jesus be the better _____ after death (in eternity with God)?

If you begin to view life through this perspective, you can begin to see how Jesus is the better _____ for any aspect of life.

As you allow Jesus to those realities in your life – because he is God, and you are not, you can look back and see how Jesus transforms you to see the world different and live into it differently – because he is the standard for how you view and live in the world.

As you live this way with Jesus, you have a story of Jesus redeeming you from all sorts of false realities. You have a story that you can now share with others, a witness of how Jesus is the better everything that we as humans long for.
